Authors can submit

For high-quality articles, the World Medical Journal editorial team will work with authors through the editorial process. Authors should plan to be available throughout the editorial process and provide timely responses (within 48-72 hours) to editorial feedback upon request. Due to the comprehensive editorial process, authors must adhere to editorial deadlines to ensure that their article can be published in the respective issue. The editorial team will share the accepted article in layout format (proof) for authors to send any final revisions and authorize the final version prior to publication.

Note about Originality and Plagiarism

Authors take full responsibility for the content of their submitted articles, including the originality and innovation of the content. Authors should avoid academic or scientific misconduct through the act of plagiarism, which is defined as “the act of using another person’s words or ideas without giving credit to that person” (Merriam-Webster Dictionary, 2021; Merriman, 2010). If any content (e.g. text or graphics) was published in a previous publication, authors should seek the appropriate authorization by the original authors and publisher for reprint permissions.
